FIRE AT FORT SASKATCHEWAN.

Fort Saskatchewan, Feb. 3rd.—The house of Mrs. Ferguson was badly damaged by fire last night, caused by the explosion of a lamp. Prompt and vigorous efforts alone saved the building from entire destruction.

—Insuffl Free Lance: Some thirty new settlers arrived here this week to make their homes in this most delightful district of Alberta. The party are mainly recent citizens of Nebraska and have every appearance of being the right class of people for the district. Several have brought their families and a quantity of farm implements and stock. We welcome the new-comers and trust they will have no reason to regret adopting Alberta for their home.

LOCAL.

—Wednesday of next week is Ash Wednesday.
—Whyte avenue, Strathcona, is being gravelled.

—Regular meeting of the town council on Wednesday evening.

—Supreme court is dated to open here on Tuesday of next week.

—The Alabama Warblers appear in the opera house on the 15th and 17th instants.

—Two rinks of curlers will in all probability leave on Saturday for the Winnipeg bonspiel.

—McDonald defeated Campbell in the Blue Ribbon curling competition on Friday evening.

—The committee of the public reading room meet in the room to-morrow evening at eight o'clock.

—The Bankers were defeated by the Accountants at hockey on Saturday night by a score of 7 to 4.

—Regina Leader: There will be a Christian Endeavor convention at Wolseley on March 27 and 28.

—Dr. J. A. Tierney has been appointed attending physician at the St. Albert Indian boarding school.

—W. S. Robertson conducts an auction sale of horses at Larose & Starrett's livery barn on the 13th inst.

—There will be a pie social at the Salvation Army hall to-morrow night. Admission 10c. All are invited to attend.

—Mr. Rankin, of Martin's saddlery, received a nasty cut from a flying puck at the hockey rink on Friday evening.

—H. W. Wright has made excellent progress toward recovery and will probably be released from the hospital to-morrow.

—The Strathcona Plaiendealer plant was removed last week from the old office east of the railway to more commodious quarters immediately east of the Royal Hotel.

—Messrs. R. Secord, J. A. Stovel, R. Rioux and J. H. Picard went to Fort Saskatchewan on Saturday to try conclusions with the local curlers. The visitors were defeated.

—Revel services will be conducted in the Methodist church each evening of the week, Saturday evening excepted. Rev. J. H. Toole, of Red Deer, will assist Rev. T. C. Buchanan in conducting the services.

—Winnipeg Tribune: Stephen Wilson, of Red Deer, Alberta, has been appointed homebased inspector in connection with the Red Deer land office. Mr. Wilson will fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. John Franks.

—A representative of the Virginia Gold Mining Co. was in town this morning. This company are at present carrying on an extensive mining business in the Lake of the Woods country and are interesting themselves in the mining prospects of Northern Alberta.

—A scratch curling match was played on Saturday evening between a team of Winnipeg players and a local team. F. Parrish, president of the Manitoba branch of the Royal Canadian curling club, skipped for the visitors and W. Ibbotson for the home team.

—The West, Regina: The regular train on the Prince Albert branch, which leaves here every Monday and Thursday, will in future only carry passengers, baggage, express and mail. A freight train will leave here every Tuesday to dispense the freight along the line. The passenger train will now be able to be regularly on time.

—Jas. McDonald is in receipt of the annual district medal given for points competitions by the Winnipeg branch of the Royal Caledonia curling club. The medal consists of two brooms crossed on a wreath with a "stone" suspended between them, the bar above bearing the inscription "District, 1902." The medal comes up for competition at the close of the points competition now on for the McDonald cup.

—Hugh Richardson, of Muscowpetung's reserve, has been transferred to the head office of the Indian department, Winnipeg, and left on Tuesday evening. Mr. Richardson was very popular amongst the Indians on the reserve and his place will be hard to fill. We understand the change is really a promotion for this gentleman which he fully deserves. We trust the change of scene will also prove beneficial to Mrs. Richardson who has been in very poor health for some time.—Qu'Appelle Telegram.

—Calgary Herald: Arrangements have been in progress between the Edmonton hockey club and the Calgary fire brigade club for a visit of the northern players to Calgary during bonspiel week. A letter was received last night from J. C. McDougall, secretary of the Edmonton club, saying they would be down bonspiel week for a game with the brigade and any other teams with which arrangements can be made. These games will draw large crowds as Edmonton teams have always been fast and this year's seven is no exception. The matches will be played on the open air rink.

EDMONTON BULLETIN FEB. 3rd, 1902.

FORT SASKATCHEWAN.

Fort Saskatchewan is an important village situated on the south side of the Saskatchewan river, about eighteen miles northeast of Edmonton. It is the centre of trade of an agricultural region second to none in the Edmonton district. The fort, or rather barracks, was built in 1874, and made the mounted police headquarters for the district, which it still remains. The banks of the Saskatchewan are comparatively low here and this is considered to be a very favorable point for a railway crossing in the event of a line coming from the east. There is a ferry crossing of the river. For the present the main dependence of the town is the excellent agricultural region which surrounds it. The business of this region is very greatly attracted by the existence of a roller process flour mill, erected a number of years ago, which is now running night and day and has been ever since December 1st. For the previous three months it was running at night. The capacity is 75 to 100 barrels in 24 hours. Power is furnished by two engines a 50 and a 20 horse power. The mill is lit by electric light from a 60 light generator, which also lights the hockey rink adjoining. Eight hands are employed. Coal is brought from mines at Clover Bar midway between Strathcona and Edmonton. There is an elevator with a capacity of 25,000 bushels. There is a chopping apparatus in connection, which has a capacity of 50 sacks a day. Grain chopped is mostly second class wheat and oats. Flour is supplied to Athabasca Landing, Lac la Pêche, the Galician settlements, Beaver lake settlements, and Edmonton. The miller reports that a third of the wheat coming to mill this season is No. 1. A very small quantity of the remainder is seriously damaged.

The mounted police barracks is an important feature. It is the headquarters of a division. So many men are kept on outpost duty that the number in barracks is never very large. The superintendent of the division, an inspector and the headquarters staff are here. Also the jail for the district.

There is a sub-agency of Dominion lands. A telegraph office on the government line which extends from Edmonton to Qu'Appelle. A post office with a twice-a-week mail service, which distributes to a number of other offices.

There are a Presbyterian and an Anglican church with resident pastors. Also a Methodist congregation and pastor, who propose soon to erect a church. There is a Roman Catholic church on the north side of the river. The public school has two departments and a large attendance. There is a strong agricultural society which holds annual exhibitions. There is a masonic and an Orange lodge.

As already mentioned the curling rink is lit by electric light.

The business establishments include:

- 3 general stores.
- 2 hardware stores.
- 2 hotels.
- 2 implement agencies.
- 1 drug store.
- 1 harness shop.
- 1 livery stable.
- 2 blacksmith shops.
- 2 butcher shops.
- 1 barber shop.

Mail is distributed at Fort Saskatchewan, for Lamoureux, Beaver Hills, Brudersheim, Star, Waskia, Manawak, Whitford, Bowick, Pagan, Saddle Lake, St. Paul, de Metis, Whitefish Lake, Lac la Pêche, Ross Creek, Beaver Lake, Vegreville, Logan, Toileta and Northern post offices, and the trade for all these settlements centres largely at Fort Saskatchewan.

LACOMBE.

H. Howell has moved into his new drug store.

H. M. Trimble, barrister, and Dr. Harrington, veterinary surgeon, have removed their offices to rooms in H. Howell's brick block.

The Lacombe co-operative store has changed hands and will henceforth be known as Fowler & Co.

Miss Maline has returned to her home at Buffalo Lake.

Mrs. Cairns, of Buffalo Lake, also Miss Thompson, of Prince Edward Island, are visiting at the home of Mrs. James Johnson.

The wife of W. Ruffer gave birth to a son on 30th.

Our popular station agent G. Hornor, has resumed his duties again. He has been very ill at his home in Medicine Hat.

Oats are still on the upward tendency and are now bringing 30¢ per bushel, while potatoes bring 75¢ per bushel. There is still a large quantity of produce in the country not marketed. Owing to lack of growing transportation is somewhat difficult.

Mr. Woodman, from Olds, visited our flourishing C. O. P. lodge last week.

H. Maxfield, is doing a good business with his wind mill.

Mr. Winters, dealer in horses, surprised Lacombe on the 25th, when he visited Wetaskiwin and brought home a life partner.

We expect soon to be favored with a speech from E. Oliver, M. P., on his way to Ottawa.

F. Vickerson attended the liberal banquet at Red Deer.

ST. ALBERT.

St. Albert village, mission and settlement is situated nine miles northeast of Edmonton. This is the oldest farming settlement in the district, and lies chiefly on the north bank of the Sturgeon river and Big lake. The village lies in the valley of the Sturgeon where it is spanned by a large wooden bridge, at the point at which it leaves the lake. The mission, which is the chief centre of interest occupies a beautiful and commanding position on the north bank of the Sturgeon valley, overlooking the village below and having a beautiful view of the Big lake to the west, and the Sturgeon valley to the east. This is the seat of the Roman Catholic diocese of St. Albert, which includes all the western part of the Territories. A large and costly brick cathedral is now being constructed to replace the present building which has been outgrown by the settlement.

The bishop's palace is a very handsome building, especially considering that it was erected before the advent of railways in the district.

The grey nuns or sisters of charity have a convent, hospital, Indian orphanage, and school occupying a number of large and slightly buildings in handsome grounds.

The village transacts a large amount of the business of the thickly populated region lying north and west. The post offices served from St. Albert, are an index to the number and importance of the tributary settlements. They are Morinville, Egg Lake, and Legui to the north, Rae, and Riviere Qui Parre to the northwest, and St. Pierre and Villeneuve to the west. The village contains:

- 2 large general stores.
- 2 hotels.
- 2 physicians.
- 1 police detachment.
- 1 harness shop.
- 2 meat markets.
- 1 wholesale liquor store.
- 2 implement agencies.
- 3 blacksmith shops.
- 1 shoemaker.
- 1 milliner and dressmaker.
- 1 Chinese laundry.
- 1 fruit store.
- 1 planing and grain crushing mill.
- 1 barber shop.
- 1 carriage shop.
- 1 restaurant.
- 1 bakery.
- 3 feed and sale stables.
- C. M. B. A. society.
- Public hall.

Telephone connection with Edmonton and Morinville.

Mail is carried three times a week between St. Albert and Edmonton.

A large brick yard has been established by the mission to provide material for the new cathedral. The capacity is 12,000 bricks a day. It employs 10 men. The cathedral will be 72x178 feet.

AN AMERICAN IN ALBERTA.

P. Southwick, of Atlantic, Iowa, who has spent some time in Western Canada prospecting for suitable location, came to Edmonton several days since and after a trip to the Vermilion country, he has returned to his home in a letter written from Calgary on Dec. 6th to his brother in Atlantic, and subsequently published in an Atlantic paper. Mr. Southwick gives much information regarding Alberta. The following paragraphs are taken from the letter:

We stopped at a town of about 700 inhabitants called Lacombe and I never saw a place of its size that seemed to do as much business. Every department of business seemed to be represented and with plenty of competition too. There was one department store and six or eight general stores, one of the latter carrying stocks equal to the stores of Atlantic. One elevator that cost $20,000 besides a half dozen buying stations with facilities for loading on cars for shipment. The bulk of the oats going from here goes to South Africa to feed and supply the British. They are paying from 20 to 30 cents per bushel according to the quality for oats and 40 cents for barley and 58 cents for wheat. This grain in the States would not be salable for over 35 cents if it would at all. This is no wheat country, the frost usually comes before it gets ripe at least that has been the case for the last two years. Little is being here the last two years and it has been unusually wet and against farming in general, especially wheat which seems to require longer to mature. I was talking with a thrasher who said he threshed barley that averaged 30 bushels per acre and oats that weighed 52 pounds per bushel and averaged 70 bushels. I saw some fine oats as I ever saw in fact much better than any in the States, but the barley was colored considerably.

I was travelling with a party of five, I making the sixth. At Lacombe one or other of the party had a friend living there and we got him to take us a trip back in the country about fifty miles from the track. I saw some fine cattle but not a foot to be had except you buy of settlers, for a distance of 25 miles. All of it either sold or homesteaded, so you see there is a demand for land in this country. People from every where and all crazy for land. I was the only one of our party that did not get more or less land either by homestead or purchase. There were 64 on the train I came out on and many have bought and are coming back in the spring. On our trip we saw banks of the Little Red Deer river a vein of coal in the bluff 25 feet thick. While on our trip we passed Buffalo Lake, 20 miles long and 12 miles wide, full of fish as one would wish to see. Yet ought to see the cattle on the ranges, all fat and fine. I saw calves running with cows that would average 700 and 800 pounds, fat as seals and well bred. They say they run out most of the winter and the horses all winter. The cat stable looks just as bright as though it had been cut but yesterday and cattle feed on the stubble and preference to the wild grass and mind you not a trace of volunteer grain in the field. I do not know why and none here seem to know why it is the grain will not grow after the crop is harvested. I think perhaps it is too late. Yet it will come up in the spring and make a fair crop provided it is thick enough. A man told me yesterday that he threshed a load of volunteer oats that averaged 50 bushels and tested 43 pounds. This though I do not believe for it makes it hard if you wish to change to some other grain. A town north of here about 60 miles I saw a man hauling timothy hay that he said he was getting 20.5¢ per ton and for that it made two and one half tons per acre. It does well here, in Calgary there are as fine blue grass lawns as I ever saw in the States and one lawn was timothy and clover. I think I saw. We were to the north end of the road, 195 miles from here, at Edmonton. A town 100 years old, 4,500 population and there is more business done there in one day than in Atlantic in a week. A grain man told me that on last Friday they paid $7500 for grain on that side of the river and he thought as much more on the other side. The terminus of the road is called Strathcona, but they are now grading a road and in the spring will be in Edmonton.

Now the Edmonton people have to haul everything across the Saskatchewan river a distance of two miles which makes it expensive as it costs a cent a bushel to haul the grain. The river is a fine one and they say navigable for 1000 miles. It is in this stream they have dredged for gold, with what success I don't know. I saw one of the dredges docked for the winter.

I would like to write more but must stop. I will add that we are having fine weather as I ever saw. As yet have not experienced as cold weather while here as I did in Omaha the few days I was there and yet they say we may look for it yet. Calgary is a fine little city, blocks made of stone and oil business Atlantic is not in it. There are some very fine dwellings.

THE NEW HAIL INSURANCE BILL.

(With the turn of the New Year, the Hail Insurance Ordinance, establishing a hail insurance system in the Territories, came into force, and all companies doing hail insurance in the Territories simultaneously ceased to do business. Although some time will doubtless elapse before applications for insurance will be filed, it is well that farmers and intending insurers should make themselves conversant with the terms of the ordinance. While this insurance system is being carried on by the government, it must be borne in mind that the government is not in any sense of the term an insurance company, or doing an insurance business as such; it simply constitutes itself a collecting agency for the farmers who join together for mutual protection against damage by hail, and provides the necessary organization for management and superintendence. It is therefore, practically, insurance on a mutual basis, sufficient revenue being collected to pay the losses fairly and promptly.

The limit of damage allowed is $4 per acre. It will be noted that the insured amount, the assessment levy, and the loss are all calculated on the basis of acreage, without regard to values. Prospective profits from a crop not considered, the principle of the ordinance being to protect the farmer for the actual loss he may sustain up to $4 per acre, which the legislature considered to be a fair figure to cover cost of crop and putting it in, and getting it upon a growing basis. While the farmer who is haled out will not, therefore, be re-imposed for the value of his crop harvested and in the stack, he will be paid what it has cost him to put in his grain and bring it to a status where damage is possible. Partial losses will be indemnified by proportionate payments, the $4 maximum indemnity for total loss being the basic principle to be proceeded upon in adjusting the partial loss.

Blank applications for insurance may be had from the local post offices, or from the treasury department in Regina. They will be filled in with the necessary description and particulars, and mailed to the department, accompanied by a remittance of 10 cents per acre for the acreage to be insured. The acceptance by the department, the insurance becomes effective. No policy is issued as is customary in ordinary insurance business; the transaction is a simple contract between the government and the farmer, which is collected upon the application, filled in by the farmer, is received by the treasurer. The ordinance is accepted by both parties on the basis of the contract, removing all conditions, and likelihood of a misunderstanding, so frequently characteristic of ordinary insurance transactions, where a long and usually worded policy is the basis of agreement. In case of loss, notice must be sent in writing to the treasury department, and also to the local official to be designated in each district. No doubt the local improvement overseer, or a resident J. P., will be selected for this purpose. The damage will be inspected, and if the insured is not satisfied with the adjustment of the loss, he may apply under the ordinary rules of arbitration to have the loss determined by disinterested parties. On the 1st of October in each year the receipts and expenditure in connection with the season's operations will be calculated; and if there is not sufficient funds on hand to pay the claims and expenses, a further assessment may be made upon those insured up to, but not exceeding, ten cents per acre. Further deficiencies, or any, will be made up by the general revenue of the country, but it is expected that the initial payment of 10 cents per acre will be sufficient to pay all claims and expenses. Unfortunately there are no statistics to consult as to actual hail insurance results, so that the present movement to some extent is conjectural.

The ordinance makes provision for the collection of the second assessment, if such becomes necessary.

DEPARTMENTAL BUNCOME

Under this heading the Farmer's Advocate says:
"There has come recently to the editorial table of the 'Farmer's Advocate,' printed matter emanating from the department of agriculture, Ottawa, which matter is conclusive evidence that reorganization or a shaking up in some respects is necessary before the said department can be made to do effective work. Under the caption of Farmers' Bulletins, two tracts are issued by authority of the minister, edited by the chief veterinary inspector. The subject matter of these bulletins betrays a lack of professional knowledge. The veterinary tracts are a term scientists have dropped for various reasons. Judging by a clause in one of the bulletins (No. 5), we have to think that the farmers were somewhat acquainted with contagious pleuro-pneumonia, a belief shared in, unfortunately, by our British confederates across the water, the bulletin, the use of such terms as echymosis, various pus, flagellae, anorexia, mediastinitis cannot be too strongly condemned. This rubbish is for popular use. Nowadays the tendency is to suspect a lack of knowledge on the part of the person using 'big words' and phrases unfamiliar to either audiences or readers. There is no use in spending public money on pamphlets written away over the heads of the intended readers. This rubbish is reason why tons of such matter is never read at all, but goes into the rubbish heap."

The Advocate suggests an investigation of swamp fever in horses.

The said portion will therefore in future consist of that portion north of Battle river of township 41, range 22, and that portion north and west of the 4th meridian of township 46, range 23, all west of the 4th meridian.

Local improvement district No. 436 has been subdivided into the subdivision of district No. 237, the subdivision of district No. 436 will consist of that portion north of Battle river of township 46, range 21, west of the 4th meridian.

HANDSOME RECOGNITION OF BRAVE ACTION
The Montreal Star of Jan. 18th, has a full and complete account of the action of a gold watch, chain and locket by the president of the United States to Capt. George McDougall, of the C. P. R., for his heroic actions on the date. The presentation was made by Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the C. P. R., and took place in the C. P. R. offices at Montreal. The watch is a costly gold one. The occasion of the gift is explained in the inscription which is as follows:

From the president of the United States to Capt. George McDougall, of the British steamship Athabasca, in recognition of his heroic services in the rescue of the captain and crew of the American barge Preston, June 29th, 1901.

The Star report says that the captain, who was accompanied by Mr. Thomas Shaughnessy, general superintendent of the company's steamships, was like a school girl, thanked Sir Thomas, and replied that he only did what any other seaman would have done under similar circumstances. The watch, chain and locket reached Capt. McDougall in the most formal and official manner, and involved transmission of communications from United States consul at London to the British secretary of state, Lord Lansdowne, from Hon. Mr. Chamberlain to Lord Minto and from the latter to the president of the C. P. R. Capt. McDougall is a uncle of Mrs. John D. Macdonald, of the latter's family.

THE LATEST COMBINE
The London Daily Mail says that negotiations are proceeding to form a European match-making union headed by the Bryant and May and Diamond Match Companies, embracing the Norwegian, Swedish, Belgian and German manufacturers, under conditions which would put the control largely in Bryant and May and the Diamond Match Companies' hands.

RICHARDSON OUT IN LISGAR

In a recent issue of the Tribune R. L. Richardson announced himself as an independent ticket and issued a manifesto reviewing the course of Lisgar politics for the past 10 years. He says:
"I had been in parliament a very short time before it became evident to me that my views regarding the duty of a political party or of a representative were not those of the members of the Dominion cabinet and of many of the liberal members of the House of Commons."

After condemning the present government for failure to keep its pre-election promises, Mr. Richardson announces himself as still "standing on the old platform," and says, "In regard to the questions of the tariff policy, economy of administration, reform of patronage, etc., I occupy exactly the same position as I have done since you first honored me with the representation of your interests. Experience has shown me the necessity of further reforms. The removal of the great public services which are in their greatest monopolies from the field of private ownership and exploitation is necessary not only in order to promote the material well-being of the people, but to prevent the disintegration of public morality, which, under the system of alienating franchises of enormous value, and squandering millions of public treasure to 'add' profitable enterprises, is proceeding apace. I advocate therefore, the public ownership of the railways, electric trams, express agencies and telegraphs."

To the liberals of Lisgar he appeals on the ground that he has maintained the true policy of liberalism while the present government has departed therefrom; to the conservatives on the ground that the conservative nominee is not intended to be elected but is merely put up by the party "machine" to draw votes which would otherwise go to the independent candidate, and to the independents on the ground of his position to "machine" politics.
